When Do You Have New Messages?

Voice Mail uses a special dial tone known as “stutter “ dial tone. If, when you hold the handset to your ear, you hear a stutter dial tone instead of a solid dial tone, then you have new messages waiting. Along with stutter dial tone, Voice Mail sends a signal to your house to light your message waiting light.² That way, you know if you have new messages just by looking at your telephone or Caller ID box.

- 2 Telephones and Caller ID boxes with message waiting lights are available from Cincinnati Bell. Call 565-2210, browse our online store at www.cincinnatiBell.com/store, or visit any of our store@CincinnatiBell retail locations to purchase this equipment or obtain further information.
